- Sometimes additional damage can be found during repairs which may result in needing extra parts, repairs/paint work.
- Parts delays - due to freight, availability, supply issues (ie damaged in transit or being supplied incorrectly), which may result in your car being with us longer than originally anticipated.
- Most modern cars have a lot of technology, so once we remove/replace parts, some cars require a mechanic to recalibrate things like sensors, cameras etc) this also may require us to have your vehicle for longer than originally anticipated.
